

Dear Camp Coordinator:

Thank you for your interest in the Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp. We are excited to offer this summer camp experience virtually for you to share content with your campers. Our goal is to provide your camp group entertaining summer fun and it is up to you to decide how much of the programming you access throughout the week. Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp is designed to boost your campers' awareness of their surroundings, learn about wildlife and most importantly, have fun!

The camp uses a variety of online third-party video conferencing services and video streaming channels to present the fun and creative sessions. Your registration grants you permission to login and connect to the camp's content from a single device. In some cases, offerings will require you and/or your campers to be on a live video conference that may be recorded. Please read through the following guidelines so we can maintain a safe experience for all participants who access and participate in Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp activities.

- 1) After registering for a summer camp session, you will receive an email confirmation acknowledging that you have successfully registered. In addition, this confirmation email will include a link to a downloadable/printable copy of the camp's release and waiver and image use and permission forms. To access the camp's content and use it with your campers, you must obtain signatures from your camper's parents and email scanned copies of these forms to us at info@visitmanateelagoon.com. To help streamline this communication process, please combine all the signed forms and provide them to us in one email. The week before your registered session, you will receive a second email with instructions on how to access the camp's Google Classroom and how to join each of the partner's offerings throughout the week. Please note, email addresses used for registration, as well as email addresses associated with joining the Google Classroom platform may be shared between host organizations to operate the camp and for future marketing efforts.
- 2) While we require the names of participants during the online registration process, you will not be required to input any personal information on the various third-party video conferencing and video streaming platforms. If you are asked to provide a name, you can provide your first name and last initial only, but there is no need to input any campers' names.
- 3) The offerings hosted on live video conferencing platforms will have a representative from one of the environmental partners presenting content to attendees.
- 4) Some of these sessions may be recorded for future camp or class activity purposes and for children who were unable to attend that session. You may choose to keep your device's camera turned off during any livestream lessons to eliminate the potential of you or your campers' images from being recorded.
- 5) Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp partners will monitor their respective offerings to ensure all participants have a safe and fun learning experience. Participants are required to adhere to responsible and appropriate behavioral expectations throughout each session. Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp representatives and content presenters reserve the right to remove participants who do not adhere to these expectations from the virtual summer camp. However, we are not responsible for the actions of attendees. We encourage camp coordinators to monitor children while using the various platforms.

The Wild About Wildlife Virtual Summer Camp may include some physical activity from time to time. The exercise sessions may range from one minute to approximately 30 minutes in length and will be led by a certified yoga teacher.

Please carefully review and sign the attached Release document if it is acceptable to you.

Please contact us if you have any questions about these guidelines or this virtual learning program at info@visitmanateelagoon.com.
